Preserving Coastal Paradise: Indra Maya Pool Villa Beach Clean-Up

In an ongoing effort to contribute to environmental sustainability, Nirwana Gardens conducted its second beach cleaning initiative in 2024 at the Indra Maya Pool Villa vicinity on March 4, 2024. This event, which took place from 08:00 to 09:30 WIB, is part of Nirwana Gardens' monthly beach cleaning program.

The diverse team of 29 staff volunteers, showcased a collective passion for preserving the natural beauty of the coastal ecosystem. Each participant brought a collaborative spirit and a sense of shared responsibility by identifying and removing non-recyclable waste, such as plastic bottles, styrofoam, glass bottles, ropes, and fishing nets, from the shoreline. The collective effort not only improved the visual appeal of the beach but also contributed significantly to the health of the local marine life.

As sea turtles occasionally come up to our beaches to lay eggs, it is imperative that the resort does its best to ensure its original habitat remains unchanged through the years.

The positive impact of the beach cleaning initiative extended beyond the immediate cleanup. Participants shared a newfound appreciation for the delicate balance between human activities and nature, deepening a sense of responsibility and care for both staff and the environment.

One of the remarkable outcomes was the collection of an impressive 150kg of waste, tangible proof of the positive impact achievable through collective action. The removal of this non-biodegradable debris prevents potential harm to marine life, preserves the natural beauty of the beach, and contributes to the overall well-being of the coastal ecosystem.

Nirwana Gardens expresses heartfelt appreciation to all the staff volunteers for their dedication and commitment to this impactful initiative. As part of its ongoing commitment to environmental initiatives, Nirwana Gardens is committed to continuing such events that foster a deeper connection between the community and achieve long-term environmental sustainability.

Two Clutches of Hawksbill Turtle Hatchlings Released!

On 24 May 2024, the Nirwana Gardens Turtle Hatchery, together with staff and guests, safely released 219 Hawksbill baby hatchlings into the sea at the Banyu Biru Villas beach vicinity. The third clutch of eggs discovered on 2 May 2024, is scheduled to hatch between 29 June to 4 July 2024.

Hawksbill turtles (Eretmochelys imbricata) play a crucial role in marine ecosystems by maintaining healthy coral reefs. They feed on sponges, controlling sponge populations, and preventing overgrowth that could smother coral reefs.

These species are among the most critically endangered species globally, primarily due to habitat loss, pollution, and poaching. With only a few thousand nesting females remaining worldwide, each new clutch of eggs is a vital contribution to the survival of the species.

To foster a safe and nurturing environment for hatchlings, Nirwana Gardens conducts frequent beach cleaning activities with staff volunteers, all with a common goal of coastal conservation in mind and protection of sea turtles. Staff volunteers from the last beach cleaning held on 2 May 2024 successfully collected 240kg of trash from both coastal and inland areas of the Banyu Biru Villas beach vicinity.

Through dedicated efforts, staff of Nirwana Gardens continue to work tirelessly to protect these endangered species that are listed on the IUCN Red List of Threatened Species, as well as to educate visitors and the local community about the importance of the conservation of this species for future generations.

Exploring Bintan's marine diversity with the Underwater Seawalker

The underwater sea walker experience is a thrilling underwater adventure that allows participants to explore Lagoi bay's mesmerizing world beneath the ocean's surface without the need for a scuba diving certification or training. The experience offers a unique and unforgettable way to explore the wonders of the ocean realm, making it accessible to people of all ages and abilities. It's a fantastic option for those seeking adventure, relaxation, and a deeper connection with nature beneath the waves. Here's an overview of what typically occurs during an underwater sea walker experience:

1. Introduction and Briefing: Participants are given a briefing by trained professionals that covers safety guidelines, equipment usage, and what to expect during the experience.

2. Equipment Preparation: Participants are outfitted with specialized diving helmets or underwater breathing apparatus (UBAs) that allow them to breathe normally underwater. These helmets are connected to surface-supplied air sources via hoses, providing a constant flow of fresh air.

3. Enter the Water: Participants usually enter the water from a platform or boat, accompanied by experienced guides who aid and supervision throughout the experience.

4. Descend to the Seabed: Once in the water, participants gradually descend to the seabed, where they can walk or move around freely on the ocean floor. The descent is typically controlled and supervised to ensure safety and comfort.

5. Exploration & Interaction with Marine Life: Once on the seabed, participants are free to explore the underwater environment at a leisurely pace. They can observe colourful coral reefs, tropical fish, and other marine life up close, experiencing the beauty and tranquillity of the underwater world.

7. Guided Tour: Experienced guides accompany participants throughout the underwater sea walker experience, pointing out interesting sights, providing information about the marine environment, and always ensuring safety.

8. Return to the Surface: Assistance is provided during the ascent and disembarkation.

Yellowtail Fusilier

These fish can grow up to about 30-40 centimetres (12-16 inches) in length, although some individuals may reach larger sizes. They are schooling fish, often forming large aggregations that move together in coordinated patterns. This behaviour provides them with safety in numbers against predators and enhances their foraging efficiency. Yellowtail fusiliers are primarily herbivorous, feeding on plankton, algae, and small invertebrates. They use their specialized mouths to graze on algae growing on rocks and corals.

Ritteri Anemone

Also known as Heteractis Magnifica, it can grow to over three feet in diameter in the wild and is aggressive against other corals as it can sting them. Several kinds of animals may live happily among and unharmed by the tentacles of the magnificent anemone.

Ocellaris Clownfish

A household name that it's more commonly known by, "Nemo", is the most common of all Clownfish species that it is also sometimes referred to as the Common Clownfish. The Ocellaris Clownfish is diurnal, which means the male can change its gender to female to establish a hierarchy, and gain dominance or control to keep individuals at specific ranks in Clownfish society.

Giant Clam

The largest living bivalve mollusk, they can live to over 100 years old in the wild. Giant clam populations are now listed as "Threatened" in the IUCN Red List as they are diminishing and the giant clam has become extinct in many areas. Giant clams are filter-feeders, but 65-70 percent of their nutritional needs are supplied by zooxanthellae.

Interview with Nirwana Gardens Star Employee

Dhea Permata Hati

What's your secret for making guests feel like VIPs from the moment they step through the door?

A: Definitely welcome them with warm greetings. Read their notes and give them extra attention like giving them the room with the best view and early check-in whenever possible.

How do you keep your cool when things get hectic at the front desk?

A: Stay patient and listen to their problems well, remind them that we are here to help them. Personally, drinking enough water is a must for me.

Your tips and tricks for being selected as the Nirwana Gardens Star employee?

A: Be extra aware of the guest's needs and be your most pleasant self.

If you could give one piece of advice to new front office staff, what would it be?

A: Firstly, to be more responsive and read the situation quickly. Secondly, not to forget to take note of important things, such as the room number or the guest name when there's feedback.

Any heartwarming stories from your time at the front desk?

A: I helped a guest check-in, and they said it was their first time staying here. So I made sure to be extra friendly and introduce them to services or activities that might interest them. Upon their check-out, I was on my break but when I got back, the couple was still there and they said they wanted to take a picture with me. They also told me that the service truly made the stay memorable, it really meant a lot to me.

What motivates you?

A: You see, even though I studied hotel hospitality, my first job was in a corporate setting. So after I moved here, which is my first job in a hotel property, I really liked it and it made me want to grow my experience here.

How do you handle challenging situations or difficult guests effectively?

A: First of all, you have to pinpoint the problem and find a solution. Next, you offer the guest the solution and how it could help them. If it's getting out of hand, then it's best to let them speak with the manager. Most importantly, always remember to smile.

What steps do you take to anticipate guest needs and personalize their experience?

A: Pay attention to the first impression. For example, does the guest want to know more about the resort or is he/she the type that only wants to relax and unwind? It helps us to adjust our mannerisms based on the guest's preference.

How do you feel about being selected as Nirwana Gardens' Star of the month?

A: It really brings me a lot of emotion but mostly happy and proud. I love that I get to see my picture being displayed and get a token of appreciation. I'm also proud of myself for being able to be selected just within 2 years of my career here, it's a 10/10 experience.

Meet Our Popular Iguanas

The Trio Tales of Ucup, Unyil, and Siti

Nestled beside The Coffee Shop at Nirwana Gardens rests the delightful trio of iguanas: Ucup, Siti, and Unyil. These colourful reptilian residents have remained the talk of the resort, adding a unique touch to guest's experiences.

Ucup, with his light green scales, is often seen basking in the warm sunlight, smiling at passersby with a nonchalant flick of his tail. Siti, with a mix of green and blue hue scales, loves to climb the branches and enjoy the attention. Meanwhile, Unyil, the smallest of the trio, may lack in size but compensates with boundless energy and splendid appetite.

These iguanas at Nirwana Gardens have a diverse palate. Their diet primarily consists of leafy greens and carrots which mimic their natural diet in the wild. Guests might often spot them nibbling on a variety of fresh leaves provided by the caretakers. These greens not only keep them healthy but also provide essential nutrients for their well-being.

So while you are on your way visit to The Coffee Shop, come and say hi to Ucup, Siti, and Unyil. Their presence remains a cherished aspect of the Nirwana Gardens experience, with their charm and antics, they are ready to brighten up the day alongside your breakfast and conversation.

We asked Hendri the Caretaker!

What Hendri loves about the iguanas is that they are not dangerous. They may look scary to some but they are gentle and enjoy being pet. To ensure they stay healthy and happy, we change their food every day and alter their food between carrots, spinach, and kangkong. On top of that, we make sure to offer them fresh drinking water every day, clean their house daily and make sure their UV light is always switched on because they love to sunbathe.

Lending a Helping Hand to the Less Fortunate

Visit to the Elderly House of Rumah Bahagia Kawal Bintan

The staff and management of Nirwana Gardens recently volunteered to support underprivileged Muslims at The Elderly Home of Rumah Bahagia Kawal Bintan, by helping impoverished families fully experience the month of Ramadan and the celebrations of the two Eid festivals, through volunteer efforts and donations. Volunteers, together with the elderly played games, recited poetry, and enjoyed singing sessions together to build camaraderie and provide mental care and support.

Apart from these, staff volunteers prepared Ramadan meals for needy families and their children, along with providing pocket money to help them celebrate Eid-ul-Fitr. Additionally, Nirwana Gardens distributed dinners to families and individuals from the orphanage as part of this program.

Seaside Serenity A Beach Wedding in Paradise

Nestled along the sun-kissed shores of Lagoi bay, where the gentle rhythm of waves meets the golden sands, lies the enchanting haven of Nirwana Gardens.

Against the backdrop of a vast ocean canvas, exchange vows and mingle with the symphony of crashing waves and seabirds in flight. Love, like the tides, ebbed and flowed, draws any couple closer with each whispered promise on the sand.

Behold a majestic sight as the bride marches in on a horse, or marvel in a shower of sparks, as fireworks paint the tropical night in hues of gold, crimson, and sapphire. Against this celestial backdrop, dance beneath the stars and be illuminated by the brilliance of the moment.
